

launched a pop-up sale in eight cities across the country. The two-day pop-up sale would let users get a hands-on experience of their latest flagship on a first-come-first-serve basis, the company said in a statement.

The smartphone is priced starting at Rs 34,999 and is offered in three colour variants and the company had also announced launch offers.

Meanwhile, the device is available on Amazon India in an early access prime sale and the company's own website OnePlus.in.

With the aim to make a dent in the premium smartphone market, OnePlus launched its flagship OnePlus 6 in India, a first in the OnePlus' line-up featuring an all-glass design features 6.28-inch Full HD AMOLED display with 19:9 aspect ratio for immersive viewing experience.

"With the OnePlus 6, we challenged ourselves to deliver an external design as smooth and elegant as the work we've done inside the device," said OnePlus Founder and CEO Pete Lau.

OnePlus 6 is powered by Qualcomm's top-notch Snapdragon 845 chipset which improves performance by 30 per cent while being 10 per cent more power efficient.

OnePlus 6 has a dual-camera system with 16MP main camera, supported by a 20MP secondary camera.

With a f/1.7 aperture, the 16MP main camera features a 19 per cent larger sensor and OIS.

device will be available with 8GB RAM and 256 GB storage for Rs 44,999 and will go on sale, starting May 29.

The limited-edition silk white device with 128GB of storage will be available for purchase on June 5 for Rs 39,999.

Users can avail cashback of Rs 2,000 while using SBI debit and credit card during the first week of launch, the company said earlier.
